BAILEY SLAMS DOOR IN POND'S FACE; A. C. WINS 3-2

Lawrence Bailey pitched an eight hit ball game at Bryant Pond on Wednesday evening at the B. A. C. scored a 3-2 win, beating Stan Farrar for the first time this season.

After Howe and Hathaway singled to open the fourth Bailey was superb as he faced only one more than the minimum number of hitters the remainder of the game.

The A. C. played its best ball of the year as for the first time an errorless game was forthcoming.

Joe Pennell paced the victor's attack with three hits in four trips and John Brown and Bailey each collected a pair of safeties.

Bailey struck out only four batters but his breaking stuff kept the Pond sluggers off balance in the clutch.

The A. C. entertains Norway at Thurston Field Friday evening in a 6 o'clock game.

BAC SUCCEEDS TO GORHAM, N. H., 4-3

The Bethel Athletic Club's uncertain defense caused the loss of its second game of the year to the Gorham, N. H., Townies last Saturday.

Leading 6-2 in the fifth, two errors, a walk and three Gorham hits permitted the visitors to knot the count. An infield error with two down, and the bases empty, followed by doubles by Relach and Bishop, permitted the winning rallies to score.

Stan Farrar was on the hill for Bethel as Dick Rolfe was unavailable for mound duty. With anywhere decent support behind him Stan could have achieved the victory.

It has been proved that most children have a very faulty conception of time before they reach the age of seven, according to Childcraft books. Apparent misbehavior when children fail to come home on time is often due to nothing more than their hazy understanding of the passage of time or even the hour of the day.

LARGE TURNOUT OF ANTIQUE AUTOS AT STURBRIDGE, MASS. JULY 28

The largest turnout of antique automobiles in the Old Sturbridge Village, Mass., series of annual antique car displays and performance tests is assured for the 1951 rendezvous at the Village on Saturday, July 28, according to Leonard J. Panaggio, director of the event, now in its fourth year.

A highlight of the program will be a miniature Glidden Tour, a rough-and-tumble cross country event initiated early in the century to promote better highways and popularize motoring, over the dirt roads of Old Sturbridge Village, prototype of a rural New England town of long ago.

The New England and New York chapters of the Veteran Motorist Club of America, co-sponsors of the program, estimate that at least one hundred very old but highly polished, carefully nursed, and expertly tuned-up oldsters in the automotive saga of America will be on hand.

THIS IS NATIONAL FARM SAFETY WEEK

This is National Farm Safety Week, July 22 to 28. Maudie R. Warner, Bethel Savings Bank, is chairman of the week. The theme is "adopt safe practices." Particularly dangerous are stairs, steps, ladders, machinery, and vehicles, as well as animals. Play it safe this week and throughout the year.

Warner, Maine Man, farms and homes safe places to live 52 weeks in the year.

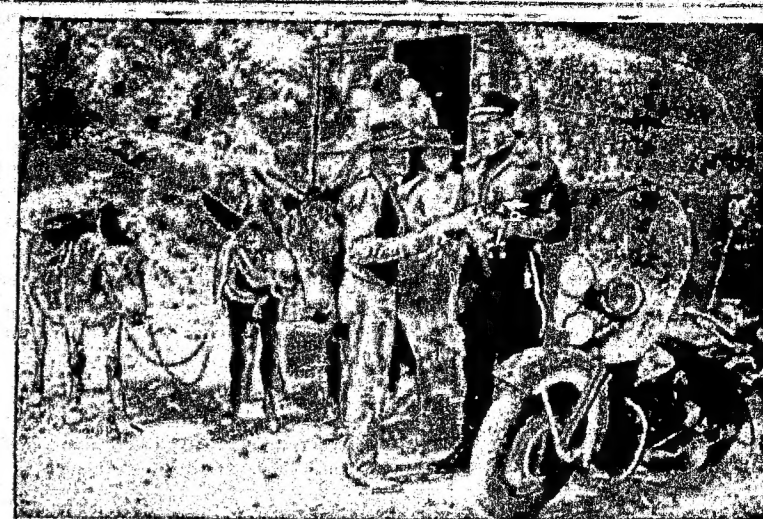

DUST FOR CORN BORERS NOW

They corn borer eggs have been found on early planted corn in and around Oxford County Market gardeners and home gardeners should dust their corn as soon as it starts to tassle.

Three or five per cent DDT can be used at the rate of 40 to 45 pounds per acre if the fodder will not be fed to livestock. Use the heavier rate if a 50% dust is applied. Two pounds of 50% wettable DDT powder is suggested if a spray is used.

Ryanex dust at the rate of 40 lbs. per acre or Ryanex spray at the rate of 6 lbs. per 100 gallons of water is recommended if the fodder is fed to livestock. Make three applications five days apart with all materials.

It is too soon to apply controls to canning corn.

TRAFFIC PROBLEM . . . Officer Jack Fuller gives copy of state traffic laws to John Moore, retired Tennessee farmer touring country in burro-drawn covered wagon, at Pacific Palisades, Calif.

SUCCESSFUL PARENTHOOD

Associate Editor: Parents Magazine

"HE'S TOO TIRED to sleep," you've heard that explanation of a baby's continued whining and crying long after he has been put to bed.

If mothers could teach a child to know when he is tired, and to take a little rest right then and there, this agreeable habit would go a long way in relieving the tension that holds sleep at bay. Of course, it would be easier to accomplish this with a roly-poly baby who hasn't a care in the world than with some poor little who seems to have been born with nerves taut and on edge. But it is worth trying for all babies, and we believe that patience and foresight on mother's part will do the trick.

Suppose it is around 9:30 a.m. and nine-month-old Johnny has had a busy morning pulling pieces out of the cupboard and trying to make friends with the cat, which usually requires a lot of scolding about to keep up with said cat. You plan to bathe Johnny at 10:00 and put him in bed for his long nap. But suddenly you notice a tell-tale nodding of his head—the extra exertion, maybe a warmer-than-usual day, or perhaps an hour of wakefulness in the night that you didn't even know about—something, at any rate, has made Johnny grow sleepy ahead of bathtime.

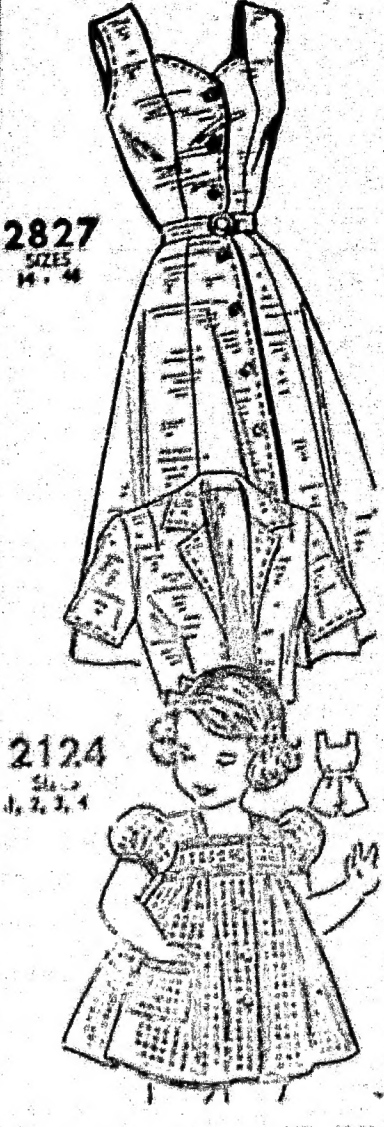

Why not put the little fellow up and put him in his bed—change the diaper, and let him drop off to sleep as he goes to bed. But spare sleep at the height of his excitement as much as possible from now! Even a baby knows how to nod off. In this way he will learn something pleasant, something to look forward to when he is tired, and not something to dread.

Naturally, it upsets your plans to have to postpone Johnny's bath. Besides, this short nap won't take the place of the long one he is accustomed to, so he'll probably be sleepy again just about the time you plan to put him in his stroller and go to market. Yes, two short naps are more trouble for mother than a long one—and you get less work done in a divided period of time—but isn't it worth while to contribute to the growth in your child of steady nerves and an amiable disposition?

When company comes is another good time to understand baby's tiredness by anticipating it a little. Even the friendliest baby pays in energy for those smiles and giggles that delight your friends. Watch him—don't let him get to the stage of excitement where he'll do anything for a laugh. Pick him up in your arms, let him rest one last bit of excitement with a farewell smile, then walk with him slowly and matter-of-factly into his room and put him in his bed. Continue to talk with him for a few minutes until he forgets the visitors and settles into the accustomed easygoing relationship of Mommy and Johnny alone in the house together.

The business of making the most of a baby's sleepiness works both ways. If a baby takes an extra long nap why put him to bed at night right on the dot? You can't go to the extreme of letting the baby dictate when to go to bed, but you can let him go to bed when he is a little sleepy. In this way he will learn something pleasant, something to look forward to when he is tired, and not something to dread.

When buying food, advises Maine Extension Foods Specialist Kathryn Briwa, keep in mind quality, price, supply, food value, the use intended, the likes and dislikes of your family, and the amount of time available for meal preparation.

The old "equality" fallacy that a child who is above average in one trait will necessarily be below average in others is not true, according to tests reported by Childcraft experts. In reality, the child whose intellectual development is superior has been proved to be generally superior in health, size, and ability to get along with people.

Three-Quarter Century Club To Meet at Waterville Aug. 3

Plans are shaping up fast for the annual meeting of the Maine Three-Quarter Century Club on Colby's Mayflower Hill campus, Wednesday, August 22, according to Guy P. Butler, executive manager of the Maine Publicity Bureau, which sponsors the organization.

Enthusiastic participation of the Waterville Lions Club, which will be host club for the event, was pledged at a meeting last week of directors of that organization and the officials of the Publicity Bureau. Other Lions Clubs throughout the State will assist in transportation in accordance with the vote of the recent Lions District Convention.

First step in promoting the annual one-day outing, which last year attracted more than 1,000 of Maine's oldsters to the meeting at Waterville, is the enrollment of all permanent or seasonal residents of Maine who are 75 or more years of age. Some 1,500 names currently are on the Publicity Bureau rolls and have received membership cards in the Maine Three-Quarter Century Club, only State-wide organization of its kind in the Nation. There are no dues or fees of any kind in connection with membership in this club, which is sponsored by the Publicity Bureau both to honor Maine's elderly citizens as well as to point up the fact nationally the "people live longer in Maine." Periodic bulletins of information and good will are sent to members throughout the year.

All persons in Maine over 75 years of age are invited to fill out the following enrollment form and mail to the Maine Publicity Bureau:
